Organizational Overview: Founded in 1962, the Buell Foundation is a private foundation dedicated to supporting the positive development of children across the state of Colorado through grants and partnerships with nonprofit organizations. Grants are primarily awarded in the areas of early childhood education and development and teen pregnancy prevention. Since inception, the Buell Foundation has awarded more than $200 million in grants.

Introduction: In alignment with Supporting Families, Children, and the Caregiving Workforce: A Local Financing Toolkit for Colorado, the Buell Foundation is pleased to announce a new funding opportunity. We are interested in supporting the infusion of new revenue into the early childhood system. It is clear that the early childhood system will benefit from a significant infusion of resources to ensure that high-quality child care is available and accessible to Colorado families. At the Buell Foundation, we recognize that a well-funded system that promotes quality care also includes improved pay, benefits, and working conditions for early childhood caregivers.

Buell is growing its focus on increasing revenue at the local and regional level. State and federal funding streams are often very prescriptive and, while they are a key component of a well-funded system, we know that each Colorado community is different. Local funding can maximize the use of local assets while being responsive to the unique realities and needs across the state.

We are excited that national and local polling consistently shows support for increased funding for early childhood needs. According to a Children's Funding Project poll from 2021, there is broad support for maternal and infant health services (75%), high-quality infant and toddler care (70%) and high-quality preschool programs (69%). It is also exciting to see local communities across Colorado signal their support for additional investment using local revenue from sales taxes to lodging taxes to meet local needs.

As a private foundation, we cannot engage in lobbying or electioneering, but we are able to support local funding efforts in many other ways. Outside of providing funding support, Buell can connect advocates and community leaders to educational resources, administrators who are already overseeing publicly supported ECE initiatives, and consultants/nonprofit leaders with specific knowledge related to local community challenges.

Below are opportunities that the Buell Foundation is interested in funding.

PHASE 1: LEARN	Convening Grants support an established leadership group, learning from other communities and experts, opportunities for engagement with under-represented individuals, shared education, and learning the steps necessary to seek local financing.
PHASE 2: LOCALIZE	Local Realities Grants support data and needs assessment; qualitative storytelling projects that address opportunities, explore issues, and examine trends in early childhood locally; policy planning; estimating costs, and reconciling vision with available revenue.
PHASE 3: FINALIZE	Readiness Grants support public opinion polling, building out a campaign plan and costs associated with educating decision makers prior to titling a ballot measure.
PHASE 4: CAMPAIGN	The Buell Foundation cannot provide funds that seek support for a titled ballot measure.
PHASE 5: IMPLEMENTATION	Implementation Grants invest in programs that have been approved. Grants could fund learning from experts on governance and programmatic delivery or the piloting of smaller projects that may be funded when additional local dollars are available. Children are only four years old once; smart, planful implementation of early childhood funding streams is essential. This opportunity includes planning grants for cities/counties that have lodging/marketing district taxes available to support early childhood needs.
PHASE 6: REAUTHORIZING	Reauthorization Grants provide limited support for communities that have sunset provisions or other temporal limitations for local funding. Funds can be used for data collection, storytelling, polling, and education.
